

Editor's Note

The default mental-emotional state of the average person today is one of a closed mind, and anything that challenges that is rejected out-of-hand. This remains a struggle for those wanting to help prepare their friends and family for the pole-shift. But there are still many months before the Earth Changes become unbearably obvious, if they are not already, for those of us who are doing the watching and reporting. The extremely broad Earth change events that are happening minute-by-minute around the world require a clear pattern of recognition, otherwise you cannot fit the piece into the Planet X puzzle—if you do not know the pattern, you will not see the picture. Life is not so complicated that a simple explanation of natural events will always be possible.

A constant stream of dis-information is flowing from those who do not want you to know the existence of Planet X, let alone that it is in the solar system right now. When you read the dis-information pieces, it is always complicated. The more you research it, the more you see that it almost always comes back to unavailable data, the hard data. If you are lucky enough to find this data, it is highly abstruse and requires many more hours of research to use it. NASA knows that the casual investigator will not go this far to compile the data, so they can fabricate what they want, as long as the dispatch does not push the boundaries of believability, which they are almost up against right now.

Even those who have good intentions are spreading dis-information as hearsay and second-hand beliefs, including genuine channels. Even a channel has to update his or her awareness of what is happening to Earth if they are going to channel that kind of information (for example, if you are a highly accomplished pianist, you could channel Beethoven or Rachmaninoff and play the piano exactly as they did). Otherwise these good people are passing on stories of the heart and of good living: nice, but we need the accurate information of which the ZetaTalk transcripts and ZetaChats are founded on. It needs to be clearly understood, however, that the Zetas are bound by the Council of Worlds directives. Ultimately, it is up to the individual to look after their own Life, but unfortunately, some of these people are parents, and are responsible for the care of innocent children. So, please, I'm asking those to set their pride aside and read the information in these newsletters as if your Life depends on it, because it does.

Planet X NewsLetter Short Introduction

This Planet X NewsLetter is based on straight up information from the Zeta aliens who communicate telepathically with Nancy Lieder of ZetaTalk from the fourth dimension. Whether you believe this or not is not the point, what is important, however, is that you read the information here within. If you realize Planet X is real in a by-the-way manner or with the visual of Planet X in the sky (way late), and that the establishment has been duping you with a cover-up on Planet X, it may be too late for you to survive the crustal (pole) shift. My suggestion is to suspend your belief system for now and fill in the blanks later, for blanks there are. Information in this NewsLetter is only available through the ZetaTalk process (which is available here or here). This newsletter offers a common sense explanation of Earth change events, albeit outside of conventional cultural texture, which the reader hopefully will be willing to entertain.

Planet X is constituent to our solar system, but only makes periodic appearances due to its path of movement. It swing-orbits between our Sun and its dead binary companion 111 billion miles away. It passes Earth every 3,656 years and causes the outer crust of Earth to separate, shift and then lock, screeching and groaning, into a new position: the pole-shift. This happens because of the monumental magnetic force that Planet X has over Earth, specifically on the great mid-Atlantic rift, a 40,000 kilometer (24,855 mile) long underwater, highly magnetic mountain range, anecdotally referred to as “Earth’s third magnet”. As Planet X moves closer to Earth, the lock-influence commences and Earth’s rotation slows to a stop within about a week. At the stop point, Earth’s continents collide with each other in a domino effect, at the least, causing massive global earthquakes and tsunamis.

The reasoning for the cover-up is that it is not possible to prepare 6.7 billion people for world-wide catastrophe; there would be panic and violence in every country and besides, the wealthy elite want you to continue to sustain their Lifestyle until the very last minute.

The date of this event is not allowed to be known by Humans, which is why we all must stay vigilant. Thus, the purpose of the Planet X Newsletter.

From Graham Hancock's “Fingerprints of the Gods: A study of 'Earth Crust Displacement'”:

“The mammoth died suddenly, in intense cold, and in great numbers. Death comes so quickly that the swallowed vegetation is yet undigested. . . . Grasses, bluebells, buttercups, tender sedges, and wild beans have been found, yet identifiable and undeteriorated, in their mouths and stomachs” (Hancock 1995, 215-16)

Envisioning the pole-shift

None alive today have ever experienced what we are about to be exposed to, with this dangerous adventure of the impending crustal shift. Not all crustal shifts are created equal, to be sure. Some move the respective poles a little way, for example the last crustal shift moved Greenland southward to where it is today, creating the current Arctic location as the North pole. However, this shift we see almost a full 90° movement, placing the current poles on the Equator. This new pole scenario will melt the ice sheets positioned on the poles now; this is why a sea level rise of 675 feet has been predicted by the Zetas. Geologically we will have massive global earthquakes due to the continents all adjusting to the colossal crustal collisions that drive over some and underneath others; this is the cause of Earth mountain building. Consider the Himalayas: they exist because of the immensity of the Eurasian plate's unwillingness to move during these shifts, virtually driving the Indian plate beneath it. Along with the earthquakes across the globe, which will kill 90% of Earth's population, we will experience tidal waves that reach above most city buildings upwards of 700 feet. I chose the artist's impression of the tsunami above as the wave is about the right height. The artist that created this image (above) is unknown.

If you live near a volcano, expect sheets of oil to virtually fall aflame from the sky. Other areas will see blankets of oil fall to the ground, covering everything with sticky, slippery oil.

“In the glow of the Destroyer the Earth was filled with redness. The face of the land was battered and devastated by a hail of stones which smashed down all that stood in the path of the torrent. They swept down in hot showers, and strange flowing fire ran along the ground in their wake. It was a time of undoing.” The Kolbrin Bible.

Incredible lightning displays will occur high in the stratosphere due to the the interaction of the highly charged tail of Planet X wrapping itself around the globe. But it is not the light from the flashes or even the possibility of being struck by lightning that is the danger: it is the monstrous sound that will blow out your eardrums and render you deaf. You will need serious ear protection.

Planet X's tail is millions of miles long and full of broken planet debris from passing through the asteroid belt for eons as it completes its orbit (approximately every 3,656 years). This is the cause of increased fireballs entering our atmosphere at this time. The Zetas suggest situating yourself up against a rock face or in a ravine, making sure you are lee of local prevailing winds. Beware of deluge washing out your safe location. This is very important as very hot meteorites of various sizes are expected to bombard your survival location.

Wind is a big problem for those who do not expect it. You must prepare for wind speeds above usual hurricane forces. Wind can behave unexpectedly and may lift a structure or move it in unusual ways. Tie down your shelter very, very securely.

A fantastic deluge of water is expected to accompany the hurricane winds, so one must be situated in a location that will not be washed out by unexpected flash flood.

Most people will not be emotionally prepared for this mind-blowing adventure of a lifetime, for surely none will have seen this over many lifetimes! Those in your party must be told what to expect, so at least they can prepare mentally for the onslaught.

All those in your survival group must be exposed to several meetings beforehand to make sure they know what to expect. The most emotionally stable individuals should look after the elderly, the ill, the weak, and the children. They should have a ring of stability about them to provide a nearby calm and rock-like presence while the world outside is wailing and thrashing beyond belief.

Earthquakes can be expected to be above Richer 9—basically the worst shaking possible—so each in the party should be tied down somehow (or the structure lined with thick foam), but in a way that they could quickly escape the hold-down in case of emergency.

The shelter chosen should have multiple levels of protection, such as a corrugated metal roof or a metal culvert pipe, perhaps set in the ground somewhat, and staked down with metal cable with very deep metal pins. One could combine that with an earthen berm with good drainage. I am sure all will want to start the After-time injury-free.

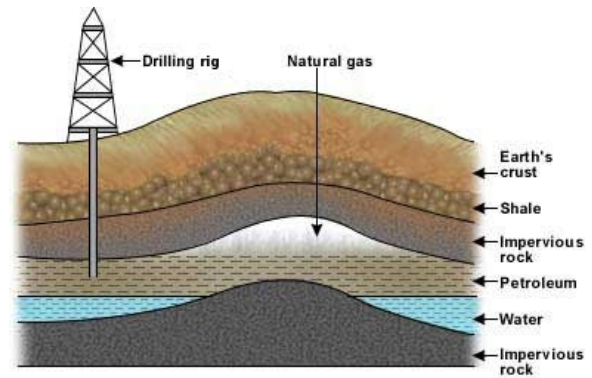

In the last weeks, even the vision of Planet X next to the Sun will not be the most disturbing of several factors to most people. Air travel will be suspended due to treacherous conditions for flight made obvious by the fireballs, volcanic ash cloud, volatile and unpredictable weather, air traffic control, and unreliable electronic airport systems. Severe restrictions will hamper travel by car due to downed bridges (not to be replaced), possible landslides over highways, perhaps roads under water near rivers and the ocean and, finally, army reserve and police checkpoints and blocked border crossings. Food stores will most likely be sold out or offer very limited provisions. Hospitals will be overloaded (as if they are not even now), not only with too many patients and a lack of medical products, but most likely a shortage of ambulance service, nurses, and doctors. Likewise, government services will either be unavailable, shutdown, or no one answering the phone due to being too busy or just not there.

Only the most stable of personalities can quietly endure the surreal and confusing new environment during the pole shift and of the After-time, and surely those will be the ones moving through these conditions, when possible, doing the good work that is required for those who need it.

Diamonds, Technology, and Oil

Do you remember being told in geography class that the world's oil was created from the bodies of dinosaurs and decayed vegetation? I remember, but it never sat very well with me. Even as a young boy, I would think about the dry bones found of dinosaurs in deserts, perhaps a herd of dinosaur bones, but this never seemed to be associated with a pool of oil underneath them. Then, later on I would think: Okay, there must be lots of decayed vegetation in layers of rock, but that was never associated with an oil field. Oil fields seem to be divorced somehow from the occurrence of fossils as well.

Now, you would think that since scientific technology can create diamonds, oil would be next on the roster, wouldn't you? Not a peep from the related scientific fields on this. A Google search yields no definitive successful programs. With billions of dollars in spending and risk to man and boy, you would think that somebody would find a way to make oil from compost, or at least recreate it in a lab. Still, not a peep. It just may be that the oil companies and the government(s) know something they are not teaching in the Universities and the schools.

It turns out that the Zetas finally explained the origin of oil: Planet X.

The process is complex and dynamic, but the basics are thus: The unbelievably large tail of Planet X is comprised of many components, some of which are the ingredients of oil: petrochemicals. I say ingredients, as they combine to create oil from the conditions generated during the passage of Planet X on-the-fly, as it were. During the pole shift, the tail wafts over the entire Earth and releases the petroleum ingredients into the atmosphere. These are combined to make oil by intense heat from volcanic emissions within an oxygen-poor environment. The lack of oxygen is created by both the ignition of the dropping sheets of oil and the loss of atmosphere that is ripped away by Planet X. This is why every known account of past pole shifts speak of fire storms. Falling to Earth however, some oil does pool on the ground, seeps into cracks, to be eventually decomposed if it is exposed to air for a long time. The remaining oil that pools to a low-point can be preserved by a covering of the advancing seas, which eventually dry and form a salt-cap over the fissures or openings that contain-the trapped oil deposits, thereby preserving them.

One could say that today, much of our world's economy virtually runs on Planet X.

Large Fireball leaves crater in Colombia

On Monday, September 6, 2010 at about 3:10 PM local time, a large fireball struck the soil in the municipality of San Joaquin in the Santander Department, central Colombia. Accompanied by a massive explosion shattering windows in the area, the Meteorite was confirmed by the nearby Bucaramanga city Mayor, Fernando Vargas. Originally reported in the Colombian news as leaving a 100 meter (300 foot) crater, I found a local blog saying that it was more like 30 Meters (100 feet) wide. Still a significant Planet X nearby warning, but the size is not the point, it is the fact that there was a news blackout on the meteor strike.

I Googled: “meteor strike September 6 Colombia” and received no direct results. In fact, what you see are hits of stories confirming the obvious, that it was covered up by big media.

The image to the right, of the meteor streaking through the sky was published by the Colombian regional newspaper, Vanguardia Liberal September 7th 2010.

In a related story, NASA “announced” that two asteroids would do a close fly-by to Earth on Wednesday September 8, curiously two days after the Colombia Meteor strike. The announcement said that the asteroids “should” be visible by moderate-sized amateur telescopes, and goes on to say that the asteroids do not “threaten Earth”. Laying in more suggestion of danger, NASA discusses other asteroids and gives links to pictures of “potentially dangerous” asteroids. Many links pop up to this story, which is the opposite result to a search on an actual meteor that left a 100 foot wide crater in Colombia two days before.

It is obvious that NASA, the US Military, and those controlling the media, want the public to know about the two asteroids, un-photographed and invisible to amateur astronomers, but not about the monster fireball that struck the ground in Colombia. The asteroid fly-by story is a misdirect to the actual fact that very large fireballs are hitting the Earth right now. To top it all off, in June, 2009, the US Military made their satellite observations of incoming bolides, “space rocks,” and fireballs classified and not to be released to the public. In one instance, they make up stories about “near Earth Asteroids”, in another instance, they hide the events of actual strikes where they can, preventing the media from reporting world-wide, and in still another instance, they will not show the public the asteroids they are photographing.

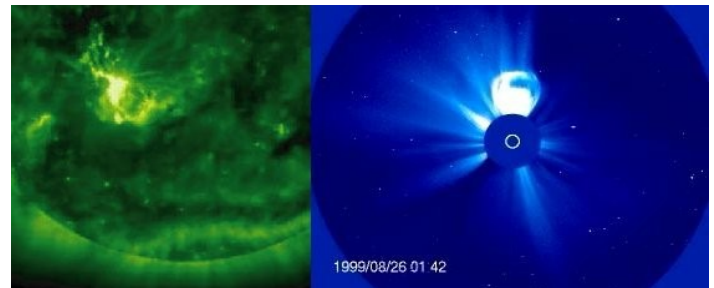

The Truth about the Sun

Let's talk about the Sun, specifically, Solar Coronal Mass Ejections (CME's) and solar flares. A solar flare can be a sudden or sustained flash of electromagnetic radiation over a broad range of frequencies that is seen to take place on the surface of the Sun. Sunspots (dark areas on the Sun) are associated with solar flares. A CME solar event is basically understood as a plasma "bubble" (conventional Human science says it consists mainly of electrons and protons), lifting from the surface of the Sun extending far beyond the Sun's corona.

To the right, the Sun's Corona is illustrated as the glowing ring around the dark circle (the Sun). It is composed of Plasma, which is its own state of matter (as differentiated from a solid, liquid, or gas) that can manifest in unique ways, such as its responsiveness to a magnetic field, and can take on various forms such as beams and filaments. In this image, there are NO CME's or solar flares represented.

Below, we have a composite image of a very powerful solar flare (green) and a very large CME (blue); a sliding scale of color is used to delineate various frequency bands, or heat, of the Sun's radiation. Starting with red, the “coolest” of 125,540 ° F, then moving on up to blue, green, then yellow-orange. These images come from the Solar and Heliospheric Observatory satellite, or SOHO.

In today's world, our culture is highly influenced by science and technology. The history of today's scientific thought was highly influenced by the Greek philosopher, Aristotle (384 BC-322 BC).

For some reason, Aristotle had a great impression on medieval scholarship, which was adopted early in the histrionics of modern scientific thought.

My opinion is that this is because he was a left-brain thinker, attractive to the inexperienced young age of modern Human Culture. Of Aristotle's works, only one fifth survives. Unfortunately, the worst of his work was adopted, as I believe he has taught many good things that have been lost to the erosion of time.

The “modern” state of Human development is really very young in the broader scheme of things. Human culture, a comparatively young race, has not yet found a natural balance of thought, clearly evidenced by the incredible mess Humans have made of Earth today.

Human reliance on technological devices has partly made our culture dependent on others who control scientific reporting to the public, effectively the likes of the governments of the United States and Modern Europe. This includes devices that produce the data streams of satellites that observe Earth and Space. Of course, this reliance is in place because of the domineering method of the centuries-old public school teaching philosophy that states: “the whole is the sum of the parts,” leading to a lock-step towards the multitudinous, ever-receding goals of determinism. A method of approach that gets forever lost in “seeking” with the Human brain, and misses the point that we are Soul having a Human experience. Right-brained thinking knows that one plus one is two-plus: the plus representing all important invisible relationships that binds the pieces of our Universe into a cohesive playground for Soul.

There is a concerted coverup effort on the existence of Planet X on behalf of NASA, and most likely involving the American government's NSA and related branches that deal with National Security. According to the Zetas, they planned to use the Sun as an excuse to blame for Earth Changes, while they make arrangements to setup secure bunkers loaded with food and supplies to hopefully ride out the Pole Shift. Almost every week this disinformation machine, manned by black operation government employees, disseminates highly suspect “announcements” supported by some junk science theme involving the Sun.

Solar flares, Sunspots and CME's are all natural events. Although modern science does not fully understand the Sun's processes, it is understood that a star lives for billions of years and our Sun is considered “middle-aged”. Additionally, it is natural for the Sun to transition through various cycles involving a whole range of events. The Earth's atmosphere protects us from the “solar wind” particles, including ultraviolet and x-ray radiation. The atmosphere also goes through cycles of shrinking and expanding.

NASA and the international dis-information machine is trying to set up the population to believe that the Sun is the cause of Earth Changes as the Sun hums away, quietly beaming its lovely energy down upon us.

Circle Talk

New Pendulum – Trent Barrow

Location: Trent Barrow, Near Nether Compton, Dorset. Reported August 5, 2010.

Discovered in a maturing field of wheat, it was probably laid down two weeks previously, as said by the person who photographed this crop circle.

Trent Barrow is another pendulum. You can see the gentle curve of the trajectory by observing the center points of the cluster of circles at the top of the image to the right. The Zetas did not offer in-depth analysis of what the circle cluster means, but suggested that Earth is at the mercy of the forces of Planet X and the Sun (as the pendulum bob). Secondary evidence is represented by the erratic orbit of the Moon and the off-kilter position of the rising Sun.

ET reminder of last weeks

Location: Baltic Farm, near Bishop Cannings, in Wiltshire.

This crop circle was reported on September 26, 2010. The crop is not confirmed, but appears to be wheat. The farmer had kindly not harvested the crop that the circle was laid on.

The inset is reversed from the main field photo vis-à-vis a left-to-right progression of the heavy Earth changes, Earth's posture contortions entering the last weeks before the crustal/pole shift. Left-side globe is shown leaning to the left, the three days of darkness (small dot is North pole), the wavy lines and the large-small dots show the globe tipping up, then down (six days Sunrise West) and leaning, then the pole-shift as Earth is drawn out-of-orbit closer to Planet X for the final phase of the passage.

Location: Radejov, Czechia (the former Czech Republic), July 14, 2010.

This crop circle indicates disturbances of the particle-flows from the Sun (large circle). The short radiant lines protruding from the circumference represent particle-flow. Notice the variance of their density/placement on the left-side? The little doughnut is Planet X causing a flow-backup, whereas the right-side with the solid dot shows normal particle-flow.

Not shown in the crop circle, the Zetas comment that flow disturbances are also created elsewhere in the solar system.

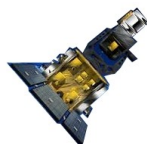

The particle-flows from the Sun permeate the solar system, and likely organic systems are sensitive to variations like this. I expect many odd conditions are to be expected, as are occurring now, but hard to pinpoint to this effect as current science is just not in-the-know, regardless of the fact that the public would not be informed.

News Items

The Vatican bank is being investigated for money laundering by Italian authorities (BBC News, September 21, 2010). An unbelievably secret organization, the Vatican bank has been involved in money laundering for the power elite. Financial favor, in turn, is supplied by the unspecified criminals, the Church enjoys an “almost complete immunity from prosecution in Italy” (September 25th ZetaChat). The Church has come a very long way down from its origins. According to the Zetas (September 25, 2010), the Vatican is aiming to settle in Spain for its high territory and strong Catholic leanings for the pole shift and the after-time.

A new Space-Based Space Surveillance Satellite To Be Launched

NASA is at it again. They are planning to launch the SBSS satellite to ostensibly watch for space debris (space junk). This is not true, of course, as its purpose is to observe and follow the paths of the many moons of Planet X to hopefully give NASA and the Russian Space Program a heads up as to a possible collision with the ISS or military satellites. This, despite the fact that the military follows ZetaTalk closely and the Zetas say that such a close pass to Earth is not going to happen. All satellites will be wiped from the atmosphere by hurtling Planet X gravel and boulders anyway. The launch of this satellite has been delayed several times already. We will see if this launch is successful.

Jakarta is sinking

Here is a news item from Thursday, September 16, 2010, about a road disappearing down a sink hole in Jakarta. This is proof that Indonesia is sinking as the the tongue of the Indo-Australia Plate drives Western Australia and Indonesia (on the same continental plate) under the waves.

Indonesia is a politically unstable, democratically bankrupt country run by the rich elite, and will be a dangerous place to be once the real Earth Changes start manifesting there, let alone after the pole shift.

Cultural Gods and Planet X

Shiva, the Hindu God, is the ancient Indian cultural expression of Planet X (The Destroyer). Kali, (below) one of two wives of Shiva, is associated with Earth's Dark Twin which appears blue in the skies in the last weeks (remember the Hopi “Blue Star”?). With her blue skin, she is the companion of our Earthly Planet X experience. Her protruding tongue is the result of having been surprised by Lord Shiva, throwing himself before her to stop her from her killing spree, as the legend goes. My opinion is that Kali's identification to Earth's Dark twin was confused somehow with the tail of Planet X, with its moon swirl debris raining havoc on Earth, not Earth's Dark Twin (or Kali) as the Hindu legend goes. Indeed, it is the contents of Planet X's immense tail that is the source of firestorms, the hail of flaming meteors, red dust and petrochemical showers that decimate the surface of Earth during the passage.

Similarly is the Chinese I Ching dragon an identity of Planet X. The Zetas: “How does one relay the sight if a large writhing orb in the sky, red and orange like fire, turning the world upside down and creating change in every aspect of life. If this sounds like the dragon symbol in the I Ching symbology, it is!”

With each passage of Planet X, a large percentage of Earth's population is lost, and those left struggle to regain a new foothold on Life. Time passes and the memory of Planet X is reduced to allegory and symbol, such as the Chinese Dragon, and the Indian Gods Kali and Shiva.

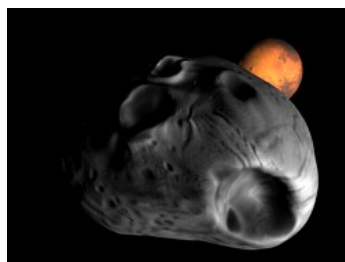

The “sailing stones” of Death Valley

The mysterious moving stones sliding across the salt flats of Death Valley National Park in Eastern California, cannot be explained by Human science at its current level of understanding. Attempts to link wind and freezing to account for the movement have convinced very few people. The Zetas explain that there is a bonding force between the stones and the moving magma beneath the surface of the flats. The flats are 282 feet below sea level decreasing the distance from the magma and increasing the effect of the esoteric force. When the soil is wet, the stones are movable and are steered about on the surface of Death Valley, creating their comical pathways. The inability of scientists to explain this story highlights the fact that Human scientific understanding is still adolescent.

Anunnaki mining gold on Phobos

The Anunnaki have been mining and gathering gold for many hundreds of thousands of years. Today they are mining gold on ore rich Phobos, a moon of Mars. Nibiru/Planet X is a smoldering brown dwarf star that is warm underfoot, yet they use the gold on Nibiru/Planet X to contain the inherent heat by reflecting it back to the surface with a gold-based molecule. Without this heat management, the Anunnaki know that Nibiru/Planet X will dim and cool.

Speaking of dim and cool, the Zetas say that the Anunnaki are not aware that Earth will move to the fourth dimension within about one hundred years of the pole shift. The present Anunnaki mining crew will, at some point, take an excursion to the surface of Phobos and observe a dimmer Sun and a mottled smaller Earth and assume it has died along with the cooled Sun. In reality, the Earth and the Sun have been divided, and the portion seen by the mining crew will be the smaller set left behind for beings still inhabiting the old, but smaller, Earth.

NewGrange: an ancient observatory

The Great Pyramids were built four thousand years ago as an astronomical sighting device to calculate and observe the return of Planet X for its passage. This was critical knowledge, as their home planet meant, at the least, a crew change and no doubt a much-needed reunion with their own people.

Newgrange, (above-left, right) a pre-historic site, rebuilt over several years and finished in 1975, at five thousand years old, was used as a strong point for the continuance of the Winter Solstice based calendar of the day, a move that was motivated by a desire to maintain social order that would be lost in the case of a plague or a disaster of some kind. Losing track of the Winter Solstice date would result in the calendar being out-of-sync, including the religious celebrations of the day. Winter was very long and this mid-winter reference point was crucial for planning the use of winter provisions.

Newgrange was such a place where a crew was sent to double-check the date of the Winter Solstice in the actual case of disasters.

An interesting note about the current Newgrange Winter Solstice observation: it's a number of seconds late, which is a testament to the last pole-shift which pulled Greenland southward as the cause.

FOX, CNN and Planet X

We know that the media is corporate owned and controlled and that mentioning Planet X is not a forgivable offense. Yet there are variations in commitments to the directives that arrive on the editors' "to-do" pile. According to the Zetas, FOX News resents Nancy of ZetaTalk fame so much, that it is highly unlikely that this news broadcaster would ever speak of Zetataalk. CNN however, incredibly, is actually anxious to promote the message of optimism in the face of Earth changes in the light of the passage of Planet X. This is held back by upper management waiting for the go-ahead, likely from the Corporate owners, who in turn, are looking for a nod from the Government agents that are orchestrating the Planet X cover-up. This is not likely to happen very soon. Curiously, the History Channel has been getting away with Planet X coverage, albeit in a round about way.

Under US President George W. Bush, Planet X was a severe national security issue, but Obama rescinded this executive order when he took office. Many in the chain of command are fearful, so only time will tell, and we are running out of that!

UFO discussion heat

(image: October 2, 2010 – Baotou, Inner Mongolia)

Recently, an article was floated out, reportedly by the United Nations: Mrs. Mazlan Othman, the current head of the UN's little known Office for Outer Space Affairs (UNOOSA), will be the official spokesperson for the ET who says: "take me to your leader". The UN, of course, has denied this. At the same time, the UN has apparently held a secret meeting in the presence of UFOs. This strategy is classic powerful bureaucratic public manipulation: float a story, check the public response, deny the story.

The Zetas have made it clear from the beginning of ZetaTalk: Extraterrestrials work directly with individuals who make the "call" for contact. This is a beneficial process for all concerned, as ultimately, acceptance of aliens and UFOs acknowledges what many have been seeing and experiencing for so long, let alone what the Zetas tell of the involvement between the US Military and alien life forms.

The reality is that without alien involvement and assistance with Earth and its human population, we would be in a very different state today. What situation you ask? Currently Earth would be stuck orbit-still at about August with probably 10 percent of the population going nuts, plus a great deal of panic as well. Just imagine what the financial markets would be doing: Job losses?

Currencies devaluing? Violence. What would the religious leaders be preaching? Yes, a pretty mixed up world, as if it wasn't mixed up now.

The UN is wanting to get in on the act before they appear to not have it together UFO-wise. The UN knows that the general public is fast coming up-to-speed on the existence of UFOs, and frankly, the UN is afraid of the ZetaTalk message, as they should be.

Planet X NewsLetter Story Updates

The Chemtrail Ends

Several Planet X NewsLetter readers informed me that the chem-trails had either not stopped or were spotty for a few days and continued as before. This was put to the Zetas, and they have said that the perpetrators had re-evaluated their position as precarious no matter what they did. They purged their ranks and, being Service To Self personalities, unfortunately decided to go with the Dark Side. Again. Furthermore, there is more than one of the wealthy elite behind the operation, and consensus is not an option.

Planet X NewsLetter News

I have put-off the Moon discussion until a later issue. However, the Moon is not in its correct orbit at the ¼ and the ¾ phase points, being October 14th (too low) and the 30th (too high), for 2010 respectively.

I have started a Planet X NewsLetter Facebook persona. If anyone wants to follow my ideas for the next Issue, this is where I send up ideas, thoughts and news. On this Facebook page, you will find a short item on how to build a "rocket stove". This article inspired me to build my own, which I have almost completed. I will post some pictures of my new Planet X rocket stove.

The Planet-X NewsLetter is my baby, supported by ZetaTalk.com and my drive since becoming a Zeta Contactee in 2007 (think Richard Dreyfuss in: "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," 1977). I live in Victoria, B.C. Canada, a quiet West Coast island town of about 300,000 people. I have five offspring and four grandchildren. My interests are primarily spiritual, singing, and workshop activities.
